Communication Works (CW) offers parent-toddler groups for families interested in learning new ways to further develop their child's speech, language, social, and sensory skills, all while having fun and connecting with your tiny tot!

Weekly sessions are theme-based, focusing on different areas of development for young children. Each week, as the theme is introduced and modeled, parents/caregivers will be provided with tools and materials used in class to utilize at home. CW's parent toddler group meets once a week for eight weeks. The 90-minute sessions are designed for both parent/caregiver and your child.

Fun and interactive classes are taught by a licensed and certified speech and language pathologist with extensive experience working with young children.

Group Schedule:

- Free play during parent/caregiver arrival
- Opening circle consisting of songs, finger play and movement
- Concept introduction and modeling by therapist with opening activity
- Rotating activities to promote speech, language, play and motor skills
- Snack time to stimulate social and language skills
- Closing circle and activity
